

Welcome to the 2023 Edible Schoolyard Virtual Summer Training!

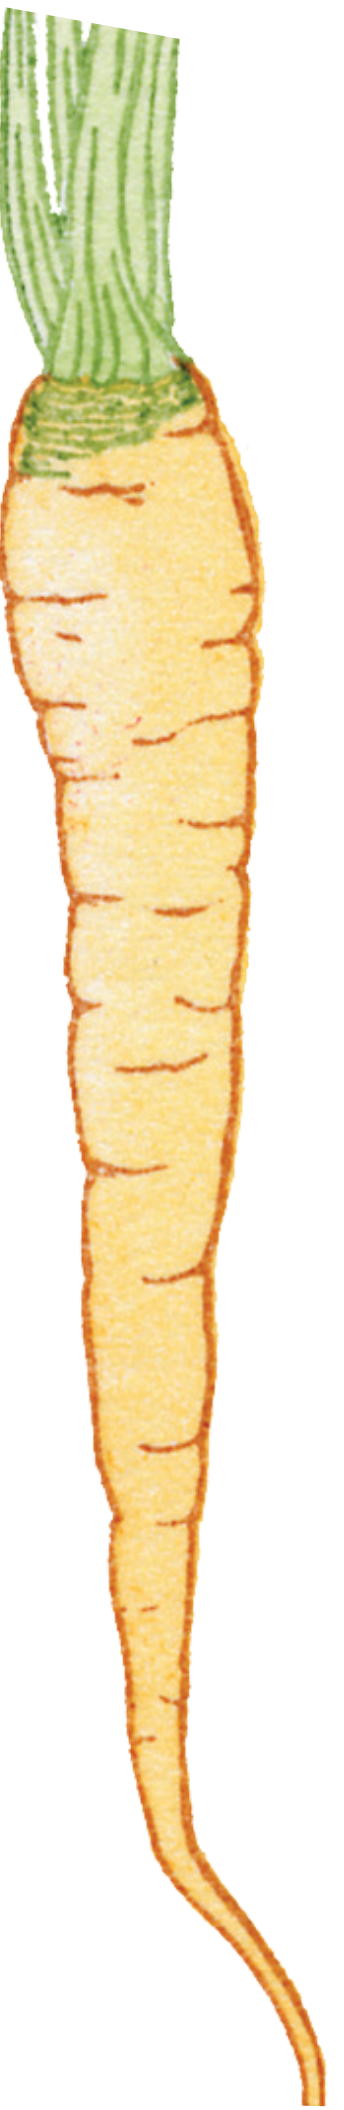

Please share in the chat where you are calling in from and a favorite fruit or vegetable in season right now.

The Edible Schoolyard Project

- 27 years of edible education.
- Founded at Martin Luther King, Jr. Middle School in Berkeley, California.
- Launched Edible Schoolyard Stockton in 2019.
- Create edible education curriculum designed to cultivate leadership and critical thinking.
- Offer trainings for educators and administrators seeking to grow their program.
- All resources offered for free on edibleschoolyard.org

2023 Virtual Summer Training: Student Engagement

What does student engagement mean to you?

Student Engagement 101

Establishing a foundational understanding of student engagement in gardening and cooking classrooms.

Presented by ESY Director of Learning Raquel Vigil and curriculum designer Rachel Mewes.

Tuesday, July 11, 3 pm – 4:30 pm PT

When Things Get Off Track: Strategies to Support Classroom Engagement

Exploring relationship-based classroom management approaches that support accountability and conflict resolution.

Presented by Regi Jones, National Training and Curriculum Specialist at Life Lab.

Thursday, July 13, 3 pm – 4:30 pm PT

Making Academic Standards Engaging

Exploring how academic standards can support deep student engagement in hands-on cooking and gardening lessons.

Presented by curriculum designer Molly Rose-Williams.

Tuesday, July 18, 3 pm – 4:30 pm PT

Orienting Instruction to Support Social-Emotional Learning

Sharing lessons, activities, and strategies that highlight social-emotional learning.

Presented by Liza Engelberg, Director of Education and Quality at Edible Schoolyard NYC.

Thursday, July 20, 3 pm – 4:30 pm PT

Encouraging Curious Learners in the Kitchen and Garden

Cultivating curiosity by making learning experiences relevant to students' lives.

Presented by ESY Director of Learning Raquel Vigil and ESY Community Manager Russell Sterten.

Friday, July 21, 3 pm – 4:30 pm PT

Community of Practice: Sharing Student Engagement Tools and Strategies

Participant-led sharing of practices, tools, and strategies that lead to deep student engagement.

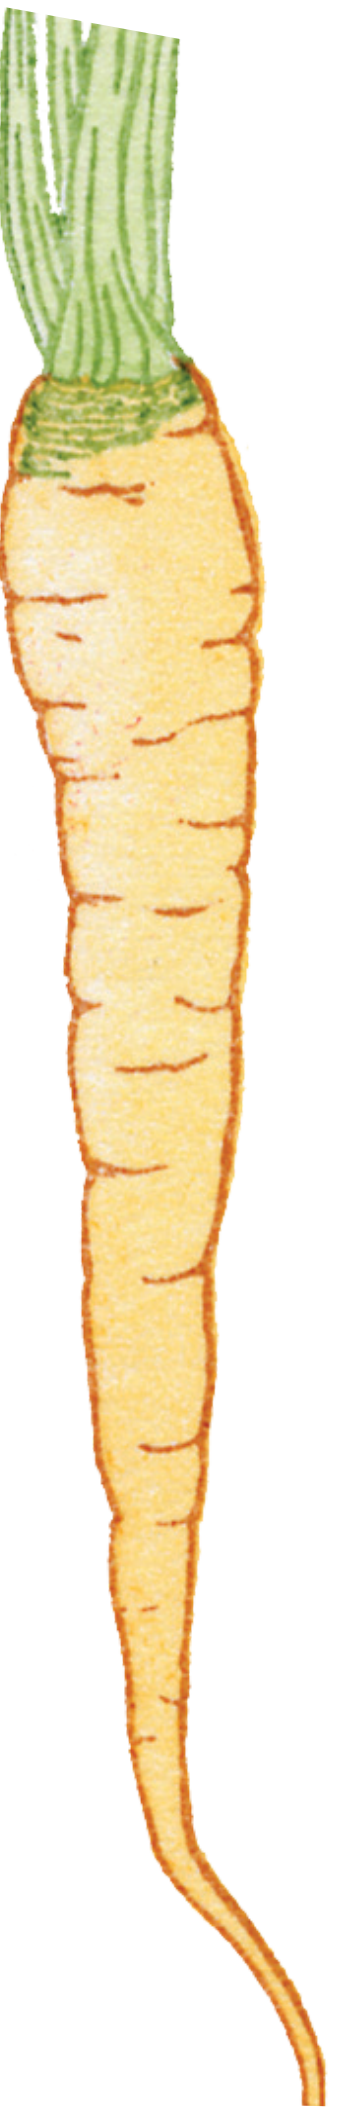

Presented by ESY Community Manager Russell Sterten.

Tuesday, July 25, 3 pm – 4:30 pm PT

Virtual Summer Training: What You Need to Know

- Same Zoom link for each workshop.
- You will receive an email the morning of each workshop.
- All workshops will be recorded and shared on our website following the training.
- Each workshop will include a feedback survey at the end.

Reflecting on where we are currently with our edible education practice.

What initially brought you to this work, and how do you feel you've grown or changed since you started out?

What is a recent moment in which your students were engaged?

What is a challenge you are currently experiencing?

Visioning where we want to go next with our practice.

What do you dream of for yourself, your students, and your community?

What questions about student engagement will you bring to the following workshops?

What is the change you seek to make through your gardening and cooking program?

Thank you!

